

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

WestWater's Managing Director Clay Landry to Speak at Inaugural Corporate WaterVision Conference

Corporate WaterVision 2010

June 8-9, 2010 | Almas Temple Club | Washington, DC

Boise, ID – May 20, 2010 – The inaugural conference of Corporate WaterVision will take place in Washington, DC on June 8-9. The event will bring together corporate executives together across all industries to discuss their vision on water sustainability, water supply risk management and the role and responsibilities of corporations in water stewardship. Discussions will focus on the new landscape of water supply awareness and creative problem solving to water supply risk.

WestWater Research is pleased to announce that Managing Director, Clay Landry will be presenting at Corporate WaterVision Initiative 2010. Keynote addresses will be delivered by Congressman Earl Blumenauer (D-OR), and Peter S. Silva, the EPA's Assistant Administrator for the Office of Water. Speakers from leading businesses will also be participating, including IBM, JPMorgan Chase, KKR and DuPont, among others.

The event will cover a range of topics including developing a national water plan, infrastructure funding, managing water stress and water reuse opportunities. As a leading expert in water markets, Mr. Landry will survey water market development throughout the United States with a focus on how recent economic events have affected markets and water values. Mr. Landry will also discuss how recent market trends, such as the development of mitigation markets, are driving new investment opportunities in water rights.

For more information on this event, call WestWater Research at 208.444.0255 or visit the conference website at <http://www.infocastinc.com/index.php/conference/corporatewater>